Jacktionary

2nd Edition

Welcome to Jacktionary - 2nd Edition! This is a huge(?) dictionary full of the meanings of many terms, inside jokes, words, and things made by the funny Jack friend group! Whether you need a refresher and forgot a word or are reading this for fun, have at thee!

Ant Laikens

Little fantasy creatures—swarms of tiny and bloodthirsty Laiken clones who want nothing but death. They originated from Kaysen and the Broom from 5th Grade Conundrums.

They're typically used as an almost comically evil antagonist in stories and/or as a plot-device in stories. They hunt anyone and anything, are extremely territorial, and are almost always panicking. If you see one, run as fast as you can.

Big Stinky

A term used to describe and deliberately blow a trivial negative event out of proportion (e.g. someone stole a pack of cards and everyone starts non-stop shaming them for doing "big stinky"). The action itself is described as simply "big stinky" and doing such an action is called "doing big stinky".

There's an alternative phrase "small stinky," which, ironically enough, describes a huge, non-trivial, and genuinely serious wrongdoing.

Conundrums!

A series created by Jack and their friend group. The gimmick is simple: a story where multiple people take turns writing sentences contributing to the story. There have been many conundrums made and they're even the origin of many inside jokes and terms. There's even a project by Jack trying to make full novelizations of many of the major conundrums.

Dog

A placeholder term for just about anything. It can be a word meant to humorously replace a noun, verb, or even adjective, in a way that the collective consciousness of the people around them are meant to infer the meaning, or lack thereof. It can also be used as a simple exclamation as a vocal stim or nonsense word. It can replace words in common exclamations

(e.g. “what the dog?” instead of “what the hell?”) or inappropriately replace nouns (e.g. “just eat your dog”).

Dog is also used in the phrase “no dog,” a nonsense exclamation directed at someone to make them feel bad despite the phrase itself having no inherent meaning. Another phrase is “do dog,” Doing dog is a fictitious act that everyone treats either as the next big thing that everyone wants to do, or a taboo and disrespected act that no one wants to associate with.

The amount of “dog” catchphrases includes:

- “Hey, no dog!”
- ”You get no dog, absolutely none!”
- ”I can’t feel my dog!”
- ”What the dog?”
- “Just eat your dog!”
- “I can’t wait to do dog!”
- ”I’m so dog!” or “I’m just too dog,”
- ”__ is [just] too dog,”

Ezno

A nickname for Enzo. Its origin is from a note Laiken gave to Enzo where his name is misspelled as “Ezno”. It is also associated with a game where everyone desperately tries to search and hunt down this fictitious “Ezno” person.

Fart Disease

Some weird fake disease caught by inhaling Febreeze fumes. It is used by terrorists as some absurd bio-weapon. There are no known treatments, although it usually goes away on its own after 5-9 days if it isn’t too extreme.

Symptoms include: unbearable stomach pains, lots and lots of gas, nausea, and vomiting and death in extreme cases.

Febreeze

(sometimes spelt “fabreeze” as well)
A semi-intentional misspelling of Fabreze. Some weird fart-disease-inducing alternate universe version of Fabreze used as an unconventional weapon of mass-ish destruction instead of an air freshener.

Get Stuck, Good Luck!

Get Suck Good Luck is a game in which people throw sticks into trees and try to get the sticks stuck in the tree. It is typically played in groups and whoever gets the most sticks stuck in the least amount of tries wins.

Gogslids

(pronounced “gogg-sliids”)

Gogslids is a series of slideshows made by Jack and their friend group. Very similar to Conundrums, The series is about the contributors trying to make the funniest pages they can with a collage of random images as text. There have been many Gogslids made, although the series has since lost steam.

Green Bean Licking Machine

A humorous-yet-meaningless nickname for Laiken coined by Kaysen. It has also been used as a pseudo-insult to Kaysen by Jack. Commonly said as “__’s just a big dumb green bean lickin’ machine”. Origins currently unknown.

Idiot Femboy

A term that used to be used by Kaysen to describe Jack during the time Kaysen temporarily dropped their and Jack’s friendship. The term was originally coined by Jack as a self-derogatory term to describe themself from the point of view of the people he meets.

J&K

(pronounced “jay-enn-kay”)

Acronym for “Jack and Kaysen”. When used in the context of collaborative work (e.g. “J&K Conundrums”), it means that it was made solely by Jack and Kaysen, typically with minimal knowledge about the project's existence from other people.

Kaysen is the Peak of Communication

A comically long nickname for Kaysen originating from the song “Kaysen is the Peak of Communication” made by Jack.

Kaysen Notification

It can be used either as a nickname for Kaysen, or a notification for a text message sent by Kaysen. The name came from the song “Kaysen Notification” made by Jack, a song targeted at Kaysen about Jack’s frustration with Kaysen’s very annoying texting habits.

Kool Bus

(pronounced “cool bus”)

A fictitious bus commonly used in the nonsense-catchphrase “Welcome to the kool bus!”. It originated in No Dog Conundrums as some weird black bus covered in spray paint that Tyson used. The name is sometimes spelled with alternating capitalization as the “KoOl BuS”.

Laiken Likes to Eat Korean Children

A comically long nickname for Laiken originating from the song “Laiken Likes to Eat Korean Children” made by Jack. The nickname also extends to a wider inside joke as a joke myth about Laiken eating Korean children or “Korean children” being some unfathomable delicacy that Laiken regularly enjoys.

Laiken’s Big Easter Basket

(typically pronounced with the “big” emphasised)

A nest-like construction made out of dead grass, sticks, and other materials. The “Easter basket” typically is filled with little “offerings” (e.g. drawings, trash, large sticks) and constructed in places like playgrounds or in the general area of our school. They’re made with the intention of being some sort of “memorial” to Laiken since he went to a different school than the rest of us in 7th grade.

Fun fact: Jack once tried to turn these into a weird joke-y cult thing, but the idea never went anywhere.

Layla Poopy Stink

A catchphrase made by Jack and Tyson commonly partnered with Welcome to Chatterpix, Layla! as a catchphrase with no purpose other than to annoy Layla (poor Layla). Also sometimes used as a nickname.

Meow Meow Voice

A voice where you talk in a loud and high-pitched, almost squeal-like voice. You can also talk with your tongue almost at; but not quite at the back of your throat, and squeak your voice slightly. The voice got its name because it's the voice of little cat-like blob creatures that Jack made called the "Meow Meow".

No Dog

A disrespectful nonsense term used by people as a vague negative term. Having no dog has no meaning yet is meant to have a massively negative connotation. The term is typically expanded as "you get no dog" and the result is that the person "has no dog".

Red Herring Idiot

A derogatory term for a person who unintentionally misled someone because they themselves were incorrect or uninformed. (e.g. if someone was guiding someone through doing something, even though they have no knowledge of the problem and was simply guessing, and what they told ended up not working, they're a red herring idiot)

Slime Village

A fantasy universe filled with living slime creatures with all sorts of magical powers that are in a never-ending brawl with these living cubes called the "cubes". The universe was created by Laiken and Jack, starting out with weird paper cut-outs of the slimes and eventually turned into entire card games and a (scrapped) tower defense game. The universe sadly fizzled out in 7th grade with Laiken's departure from the friend group.

STDTCG

(pronounced "ess-tee-dee-tee-see-jee")

A card game made by Jack in 5th grade based on the Slime Village. In it, 2 or more people use "slime cards" with different stats and battle moves and stuff to fight each other alongside item cards. Unfortunately, on the last day of 5th grade, Tyson stole the only existing card pack and it was never seen again. The name is an acronym for "Slime TD: The Card Game".

Type 3 Diary Eating

A fictitious condition characterized by a near uncontrollable urge to eat any literature of autobiographical nature—autobiographies, diaries, journals, all of it. The only way to treat it is by either treatment in a mental institution or violence by “hitting them in the head with a book”. Strangely enough, Diary Eating types 1 and 2 don’t exist.

Vega

(pronounced “vee-gah”)

A character-turned-inside-joke made by Tyson. They’ve become essentially the mascot of Welcome to Chatterpix, Layla! and most of Jack and Tyson from early 5th grade.

They’re a stick figure with a rectangular stomach covered in red and green stripes. They have a red face with a weird smile-ish expression. They have 4 lines poking out of their arm instead of hands. They have big red shoes. They’re typically poorly drawn on paper with markers.

Welcome to Chatterpix, Layla!

A catchphrase coined by Jack and Tyson as an annoying catchphrase directed at Layla for the sole purpose of annoying and harassing her. The full line is “Welcome to Chatterpix, Layla! It’s so nice here! Welcome to Chatterpix, Layla! Welcome to Chatterpix! It's so nice here, Laya!” that’s repeated as many times as necessary.